But Mr. Martin, deputy-sheriff, at once rushing down stairs, started in pursuit, and caught the fugitive, whose course had been down the alley, near Court street. In this mously Confirmed Chief-of-Police connection we would state that our pubication that a negro recently arrested by the police did not escape from the county jail of Shelby, but from the guardsmen while en route from the criminal court to this prison. CHIEF ATHY.

Tossis, and a Happy Time Generally.

After being nominated and elected as chief of police last night, Captain P. R. Athy invited several of his friends and a large number of the city council to partake of an elegant banquet. Several toasts were offered, and most gracefully replied to by those present. The

REMARKS OF MAYOR LOAGUE were received with unusual interest by every one. Mayor Loague said he felt complimented by the unanimous vote the board had given in selecting Captain P. R. Athy as chief of police. No ill-feelings had been cherished on his part, and he believed from Chief Athy's course no ill-will had been cherished by this official, whose name it was his pride and pleasure to have recommended for nomination. There had not been any unkind feeling on the part of either, and he [Mayor Loague] rejoiced to see that harmony reigned in the administration of city affairs. He then referred to the late visit of Mayor Johnston, of Cincinnati, an elegant gentleman, who said that the streets of Memphis were cleaner than those of his own city. He asked that the city council be careful of its policy and future conduct. He said the rich men were reproaching him for harrassing them, and said he Mayor Loaguel was annoying, because ie compelled them to pay taxes. He told the complainants that the poor and sition to resist the payment of taxes | that his statement be published. that the property of the rich must protect themselves in defraying public expenses. Four years ago could not have gained any position. Since then, the unpaid amount of five hundred thousand dollars of back taxes had revulsed public sentiment, and now it was not sought to elect an elegant, rich or accomplished man to the office of mayor. He congratulated the present board on its course, and said it would lead to future prosperity, peace and health, and would present to the observance a beautiful city, as to whose future he had no fears. He felt now as he did some time ago, when every citizen whom he approached remarked, "I want Chief Athy to be chief-of-police." He never intended it to be otherwise, for he had desired a good chief. He never had said to the general council, "Worry or sit there until newyears,' until you confirm my nomination." Mr. Loague complimented Captain Droescher as his first choice, and congratulated himself upon the choice he had made in deference to public wish. Since his election he had turned his attention to financial matters alone. If any newpaper representative were present, he wished them to take account the high and deserved compliment he bestowed upon the Memphis bankers, who were so much interested in the welfare of the At the conclusion of Mayor Loague's address, the inspiration became general, its effect being most perceptible upon Mr. Hillsman, who became enthusiastic, and Mr. Davis, who was proven talented unto wittieisms of an unusual kind. After expressions of kindest regards for Chief Athy, the meeting adjourned.

The attention of the board was called by the chairman to the Cicalla writ of nandamus, and he stated that service of the writ had been deferred until Saturday morning, so that the board might act upon it beforehand.

MESSAGE FROM THE MAYOR. A communication was received from the mayor, accompanied by the affidavits of two citizens who are aggrieved on account of the action of the special committee in the Barinds case. The affidavits are from Mr. E. C. McDougall, and his clerk, Mr. J. M. Berrus, witnesses in the case, and who complain that the action of the committee had a tendency to reflect upon their character and evidence. The "written opinions" of the city attorney were also official escorts of these communications, which were read by the register and then carefully wrapped up, so as to be safe until they had received the final action of the
